

What is Your Potential?

Very often, most of us define ourselves and our potential by limitations we've experienced in our earthly lifetime. Our parents', grandparents', teachers', and other powerful adults' statements to us about ourselves often plant deep, hard to eradicate ideas of our faults, disabilities, and restrictions. So most often, our beliefs about our innate power and what is our highest potential derive more from these old limiting ideas than from our own unfettered tuning-in to our Inner Wisdom. Let's explore what happens when we reject our limiting beliefs and explore our spiritual freedom and power.

Let's go within to the Silence and begin to envision our Infinite Potential, in Four Questions:

1. What would it be like for me to attain genuine happiness?
2. What would I need from the world to achieve this?
3. What would I need from myself – what habits would I need to practice and learn?
4. How could I bring this to the world and be of service?

Now, I'm going to invite each participant to share in a few sentences (2 minutes max, timed) what new insights came to you and how you might start to implement this vision in your life.

Helping you to experience this vision coming to pass is our job as your spiritual community. We hope you will be inspired to then help others to experience their vision of highest potential in their lives.

TOGETHER WE CAN EVOLVE OUR AWARENESS!
